

RE:STYLE Home Staging Company Donates to Recycle
Livingston as Part of Stage-It Green Program

BRIGHTON, MICHIGAN, August 14, 2008 – Michigan home staging company RE:STYLE LLC presented a check for $250.00 yesterday to Linda Berch, Director of Recycle Livingston, as part of RE:STYLE's new Stage-It-Green program.

"This is what our 'Reuse, Recycle, RE:STYLE' program is all about; eco-friendly, resource-saving practices that are part of the service we routinely provide to clients," said Kathi Presutti, RE:STYLE's owner. "In April, we pledged to donate a portion of each hands-on staging project to an eco-conscious concern, and we selected Recycle Livingston to be the first recipient." Presutti has been taking recyclable materials used in her home staging business to Recycle Livingston, and wanted to use this opportunity as a way of thanking them for providing an easy way to help the earth.

"Many green principles are inherently part of what RE:STYLE does when staging a house for sale, or in vacant home staging," said Presutti. "We reuse as much of the current owner's furnishings as possible, saving home sellers another kind of green (money). And over half of RE:STYLE's $65,000 worth of home staging inventory is recycled—meaning, we purchase from resale and consignment shops, as well as from furniture rental companies. We even reuse the bags we get when we do purchase new items—they serve as packing materials for the accessories we bring to jobs." Excess plastic bags, as well as cardboard and plastic water bottles, are some of RE:STYLE's most recent contributions to Recycle Livingston.

The website, <http://www.ReStyleStaging.com>, has been updated with a new section devoted to eco-friendly links and tips that any homeowner can use. Presutti also welcomes email suggestions for eco-friendly products or tips from the public. "Recycle Livingston will, of course, be one of the links," said Presutti.
